Noel Doyle is a Columban priest who has spent most of his life on the missions, notably in Japan. In this book, he presents the approach that he took to introducing Christianity to the many converts he encountered during his mission. It is a very straight-forward approach to the basics of what we believe, how we live out those beliefs, how we live out those beliefs, and how we present ourselves before the god in whom we believe.

This book will be very helpful to preachers, teachers and any one else who is asked to give an account of what it is they believe in.

Noel Doyle is a Columban priest who spent many years on the Japanese mission.
