Surveyors' Construction Handbook Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors

A loose-leaf handbook of RICS material in the area of construction. Both new and previously published articles are included, and the areas of new construction, conversion, refurbishment works, alterations to the form of buildings and civil engineering works are covered. The handbook is divided into five parts: the client, which seeks to help surveyors work with clients and discusses the development of construction briefs, the client's role, and the engagement of professionals in the construction process; construction design and economics, which covers development of the design concept, feasibility studies, design and economics, and confirmation of the final design proposal; construction planning and procurement, which deals with the procedure up to the time the construction contract is placed; construction administration and management, addressing all post-contract matters; and additional guidance and information.
